• CRAFT/PROFESSION

Typhaine SOLER designs washable nappies for babies and toddlers, offering young parents a wide choice of handmade products. She also makes super comfortable apparel for babies and young children: harem pants, undies, jumpsuits and T-shirts all specially designed to fit cozily over the washable nappies, a little bulkier than classic disposable nappies. Each design is unique and her range of products also includes waterproof bags and underwear.

• BACKGROUND

Typhaine trained as a registrar and holds a DUT diploma and a degree in records management. When she became a new mother in 2020, she decided to make all the everyday items she needed for her baby herself.

And with environmental protection a priority, she also decided that making her own washable nappies would be a great way of reducing waste.

A decision entirely in keeping with Typhaine's enthusiasm for sustainable consumption and buying local and craft products. And also very practical since washable nappies were not easy to find in New Caledonia...

• INSPIRATION AND DESIGNS

Typhaine is never short of ideas and she was inspired to partner with natural plant dye brand WARNA and also to work with local illustrators. As a result, everything in her product range is 100% New Caledonian, designed and made using locally made or dyed fabrics.
